NINE CREWS AT WORK ON COUNTY HIGHWAYS

HEAVY RAINS KEEP THOROUGH-FARES TORN UP FOR LONGER PERIOD THAN PLANNED.

HAVE STARTED OILING

One Carload of Oil Has Already Been Spread in Vicinity of Milton.—Two Other Cars Ready.

An excess of moisture has resulted in a further delay in county highway work and has kept several roads impassable for a much longer period than would have been the case if weather conditions had remained favorable. It has also prevented the completion of new work to a large extent which will result in unusual activity within the next week if there is a cessation of rainfall.

At present Highway Commissioner Mead reports that he has nine crews of road builders, and three janitors and bridge gangs employed in various sections of the county and that his work is as well under way as could be expected under the circumstances. In addition to the construction jobs he is immediately concerned with oiling, which will be rushed as soon as surfaces are dried sufficiently. One carload of oil has already been spread at Milton, Milton Junction and vicinity, one car is in readiness at Evansville, and another car here. A fourth car will be received at Beloit shortly and two more cars will be received later.

Regarding the condition of highways, indicating those which are impassable, Mr. Mead authorized the following:

Town of Johnstown: Milwaukee road impassable, take middle road of go via Milton.

Clinton-Beloit road impassable. Co via Shopton.

Madison road from Evansville to Janesville impassable in several places. Take Magnolia road out of Janesville. Out of Evansville, take Madison road to Fellows creamery and then turn to take the Magnolia road into Janesville.

The Edgerton-Evansville road in the town of Fulton and Center is torn up, three miles of construction work being started. Go by way of Janesville.

The Footville-Janesville road is now impassable as work was begun today on a concrete spillway. Go by way of Janesville as the Hanover road is completed.

Mr. Mead stated today that the contract for the building of a stretch of concrete road in the town of Turle will be let on June 20th.

PRESIDENT OF UNION AND THOMPSON MEET

W. D. Mahon, President of Car Union, Still Sticks for Higher Wages and Refuses Arbitration.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, June 11.—W. D. Mahon, international president of the street car union, arrived here today and took charge of the local situation, which threatened to tie up every street car and elevated line in the city.

Mr. Mahon said that one thing was certain and that was that the men must be granted substantial wage advances. They have rejected arbitration in present instances because of fixed their compensation three years ago.

Mayor Thompson took a hand in the situation yesterday when employees reached a deadlock by telegraphing to Mahon to meet him here today to confer not later than tomorrow. Today Mr. Mahon expected to familiarize himself with details of the union demands.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Frank P. Flaherty, roundhouse foreman John Allen's chief clerk, is extremely busy at present checking and rearranging the annual inventory.

Engineer Thomas Fox has returned from Cleveland, where he was the delegate to the national convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers.

Summer construction and repair work has started on the Mineral Point division. A pile driver and crew have been repairing bridges on this division during the past week.

Engine 535 of runs Nos. 7 and 8 is being replaced for the present by engine 509.

Assistant Master Mechanic A. J. Klumb visited the roundhouse on a tour of inspection this week.

Engine 1157 of the Rockford yards has been released from the local shops following light repairs.

A new system of accounting is being introduced in the freight department throughout the Milwaukee system. At the safety meeting held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. building W. Z. Wilcox, assistant general auditor, was present at the meeting to explain the new method. Employees of the freight house were in attendance in a body.

Engine 358 has been in the roundhouse for a new set of tires. Engine 457 will shortly be taken out of service to get some new ones.

Conductor Thomas Brennan, Thomas Murphy and the remainder of the "dog" crew have speculated regarding the distance the shoe thieves they discovered in a freight car one night ran. Thomas Murphy ponders on the matter so much that the boys have nicknamed him "Old Gumshoe."

Yard Foreman Henry Young and Charles Kruse are busily engaged these early mornings in the busy operation of a river launch. Mr. Young is an old fresh water sailor and enjoyed his pre-railroading days the position of a lake freighter. Special ceremonies will commemorate the launching of the craft.

A recent order effecting engine men gives them fifteen minutes preparatory time instead of thirty minutes, as formerly. Lubrication cups are to be filled in the roundhouse and cups screwed down.

Engine 509 is replacing engine 731 on the McGregor run.

Foreman John Allen and his clerk, Frank Flaherty, have a quartz collection. They have a quartz jar about full. The stones are kept in water with the idea, Foreman Allen says, to further their growth.

About one hundred and fifty were present last evening at the Y. M. C. A. building to attend the safety meeting of the freight du Chien and Mineral Point divisions. Employees from stations on these lines made the trip to attend. N. P. Thurber, M. P. division superintendent, spoke along general lines of safety to employees and to the traveling public. Chief Freight Inspector Wilkinson had an interesting discourse in the methods of presenting the enormous weight claims consequent on improper handling. Members of the local safety committee also spoke.

Thursday's Markets.

Chicago, June 11.—After a 5@10c higher opening in yesterday's hog market trade finished weak at Wednesday's prices, with 4,000 left over.

Speculators purchased too freely to suit packers, who pegged heavy mixed late at $7.50. Armour bought only 626, at a cost of $7.49.

The spread in swine values was wider in many weeks, lightweight hogs having the edge, with 130@210-lb. dressed cost $7.71@7.81.

More than half the 18,000 sheep and lambs received yesterday were consigned to packers, from the south, which made them independent buyers here.

Spring lambs were weakest, selling largely 25@40c lower than Wednesday's $11.50 a general price. The Kentucky and Tennessee lamb crop is reported a third smaller than last year and it is expected any decided break in values will check shipments.

Average price of hogs at Chicago, $7.60 a week ago, $8.11 a year ago, $8.31 two years ago, and $7.44 three years ago.

Chicago Hog Prices Low.

Yesterday's hog market closed little different from late Wednesday, with prevailing values at Chicago relatively low in the west. Top here was at $7.90, while with a few of the year's record, was only 10c above Kansas City, whereas the difference is usually one cent per 100 lbs. Quality continues good.

Quotations:

Bulk of sales.....$7.50@7.80

Heavy butchers' and ship- ping.....7.50@7.75

Light butchers'.....7.50@7.75

Light bacon, 45@190.....7.70@7.90

Mixed packing, 200@250 lbs 7.40@7.60

Rough, heavy packing.....7.10@7.25

Pork, best pigs, 600@125 lbs.....6.25@7.50

Stags, 80 lbs. dockage per head.....6.75@7.40

Colorado Lambs High.

While yesterday's lamb market was nearly 50c lower in spots a carload of 39-lb. shorn Colorado, in a class by themselves, sold at $10.85, a new record of decline and sleep least depression.

Quotations for shorn Colorado:

Lambs, common to fancy.....$8.30@10.85

Lambs, poor to good culls.....7.00@8.25

Yearlings, poor to best.....7.60@9.90

FACULTY ENTERTAINSENIORS UP RIVER

Class Day Exercises Are Held at Moles Grove Thursday Afternoon, With Seniors The Guests.

Members of the senior high school class, numbering about seventy-six, were royally entertained Thursday afternoon and evening up the river to a picnic held at Moles Grove, the scene of the old Chautauqua. Nearly every senior was present, and the faculty of twenty instructors proved to be excellent entertainers to the departing students.

The seniors held class day exercises, some of these exercises being kept off the commencement programs this year. They included the class prophecy, class poem, class song, the buying of the hatchet and the pipe of peace.

A ball game and track meet featured the picnic, and the supper served was most thoroughly enjoyed and elaborately prepared. The hosts and guests made the trip by autos, canoes, launches and street cars.

MISS MARIE McELROY ENTERTAINS SOCIETY AT CHURCH THURSDAY

Miss Marie McElroy entertained the Young People's Society of the Norwegian church Thursday evening at the church parlors. An impromptu program was given by the members of the society, and which was enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served and the rest of the evening given over to pleasure.

CHICAGO MAYOR FAVORS BOXING BECAUSE SPORT REQUIRES CLEAN LIVING

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, June 11.—The long cherished dream of Chicago sportdom—boxing—has 225 pounds of solid muscle support in the person of William Hale Thompson, Chicago's new mayor. Himself a once famous athlete and lover of clean sports of all kinds, he makes no bones about stating his stand.

"I am for boxing, just the same as I am for anything that requires training and clean living," he said, when approached on the matter. "Boxing has been much abused, some of it deserved and some not, but at the bottom, the game is a fine one. I used to box after a fashion, and I must confess I still like to see a pair of good, clean boys in a lively tilt."

"Of course, the game must be regulated. I think the laws governing it in New York and Wisconsin excellent and am much in favor of a similar one for Illinois."

"I am working for a greater Chicago. And I realize that Chicago could become one of the greatest boxing centers in the country if the game were allowed here, under proper regulation."

SOX RALLY IN NINTH BEATS YANKS, SCORE 5 TO 4

New York, June 11.—Those White Sox demonstrated to the New York team and fans that they are pennant winners, for they went along in their customary high geared pace yesterday and annexed the second straight game from the shipping Yanks in the ninth inning.

The Sox to the winning until the last time around, when a timely hit fly and error scored two runs and clinched things, ending with the score of 5 to 4.

Felsch was in fine batting form, grabbing three hits, one of which was a double. Eddie Collins poked out two doubles and Weaver lammed out the score with three runs in the fourth and the game went along tied until the ninth. Fischer was the pitching victim of the game.

Joe Mandot, the clever lightweight who hails from New Orleans, aspires to be an auto racer. Mandot's ambition was inspired by seeing Ralph DePalma win the 500-mile race at Indianapolis Memorial day. Mandot says he won't start to drive the fast autos, though, until he's convinced he's through as a fighter.

The meet opening here tomorrow will continue for 20 days. Its principal races are the opening handicap, June 12, $12,000 for 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs; June 13, the Juvenile stakes, purse $1,000 for 2-year-olds, five furlongs, the Colorado Derby, June 24, purse $2,000, one and one-sixteenth mile; the Denver City Handicap, July 5, purse $1,200, one mile.

Entries closed June 1. The meet is held under the auspices of the Colorado Agricultural Fair & Racing Association, managed by W. W. Finn, who also manages the Reno, Nevada track's 30 day meet opening July 17. The Nevada track also will be conducted on the pari-mutuel plan.

IT IS A GOOD THING JAMESVILLE DID NOT TRY LEAGUE BASEBALL

Elgin, Ill., June 11.—Demands of players in the Elgin Bistate league team who are said to have threatened to disband unless paid back salary they claim, were considered at a meeting of business men on Thursday, and a committee of the latter will meet President Parsons of the league in Chicago on Friday to discuss action.

Jack Halla, the veteran pitcher whose last engagement was with Salt Lake City, has the queerest job in baseball. He has been engaged by the warden of the Montana state prison to coach the prison ball team. The prisoners are allowed to play games with outside teams, and the warden, who is some fan, wants them to be able to beat all comers. He thinks, too, that knowledge of the deep points of the game is a fine thing for his charges' morals.

Poor Old Bald Head.
"Look, mamma," said little Edna, as a man with a bald head and full beard entered the room. "There's a man whose hair has all grown down through his face."

PROOF.
"Did you water the ferns in the drawing room, Nora?"
"Yes, mum. Don't you hear the water drippin' on the carpet?"

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Despite the fact that the Athletics are down in the race the team might be much more prominent if it had the sort of pitching it is entitled to. Mack believes his present twirling staff, which has suffered by reason of lack of control will gradually improve and that by the time the race is at its height he will have pitching of a kind that will make his team a winner. The Athletics as now made up have strength enough to make a troublesome fight in the race, and they may yet prove the real surprise of the campaign.

Baseball is a very different game when played on the diamond than when mapped out in the studio. In the sanctum of the sport writer theory and dogma are twin monarchs. On the ball field they assume their true role in life as blooming bums—New York Tribune.

There is said to be hope for the recovery of Arnold Hauser, the shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, whose mind became unbalanced when the Cardinals were training at St. Augustine Fla., in 1914. Several injuries and a run of misfortune in his family caused Hauser's mental trouble.

George Stallings says that timid batters can cure themselves by walking into fast curve balls and seeing that they do not hurt. Any ball player who nerve enough to do that could hardly be called timid.

Ernie Boland, Detroit pitcher, predicts that I. E. Fohl will be a success as manager of the Cleveland Americans. "Fohl was manager of the Akron team when I broke into professional baseball," says Boland. "He is one wise fellow. I think he knows a ball player about as well as any manager in the business and, for one, I will be surprised if he doesn't make good right through the season."

Now they are calling Tom Hughes of the Braves a pitcher who had several trials with the Yankees, the Jim Slat of the National League. No hurler in the older organization.

makes base runners hug their sacks any closer than Long Tom, II, and it is seldom that he goes through a contest without picking someone off the sacks. Of the twenty-four assists credited to Hughes seven have been gained by nailing athletes off first. On April 20, he caught Cutshaw May 1 Stengel, May 14 Miller, May 27 Herzog (twice) and Fritz von Kolnitz (right name Alfyne Holmes), and May 31 Bobby Byrne.

Incidentally, in Edward Henry Fitzpatrick, Stallings picked up a player who is an adept at getting Red Cross passes. The Toronto recruit leads the Eastern league players in being winged, having been hit seven times this season. Fritz is no spring chicken and, though he has been playing ball eight seasons, he has won with three clubs—Lancaster, Toronto and Boston. Harry Coveleskie of the Tigers was a teammate of Fitzpatrick's in Lancaster seven years ago.

Here's one of the oddest coincidences in the history of baseball: Four times since 1906 the Pittsburgh Pirates have beaten the Chicago Cubs two games in one day by scores of 1 to 0. In 1907 Chicago as a pennant chaser, lost two games in one afternoon by a score of 1 to 0 and pennant chances practically were wrecked. In 1908 when Chicago was fighting for the pennant it eventually won the teams met on Decoration day and Pittsburgh won twice 1 to 0. The following year, late in the season, Chicago won of at Pittsburgh en route east and lost two games 1 to 0, and Pittsburgh won the pennant on those games. On Decoration day this year the Pirates won two games from the Cubs 1 to 0.

George Sisler, Akron boy, and star pitcher and fielder of the Michigan university team, has the distinction of being the only western player selected for the all-American college team for 1915. Sisler is the team's leader with the stick, as usual, his figures being twenty-five hits out of seventy-one times at bat, a percentage of .352. Benton, his battery mate, is next with 347. Sisler is claimed by the Pittsburgh club, but reports to that club, preferring a berth with Detroit or Cleveland.

Charlie Wagon, a member of the Carlisle Indian football team in 1905 and 1906, has been selected to coach the Commercial high football squad of Brooklyn next fall. He has not as yet signed a contract, but he has accepted terms and is expected to close the deal some time this week. Wagon was selected from a half dozen candidates. Wagon played practically every position on the Carlisle eleven and has had plenty of experience on the gridiron.

Joe Shugrue, Jersey City lightweight, will be able to resume his ring operations in September. Shugrue went temporarily blind several months ago, after a number of wonderful fights, one of which gained him the honors over Freddie Welsh. The sight in one eye is wholly recovered now. The other is coming along nicely.

Wise ones, not necessarily old, recall the time when Bill Thompson, mayor of Chicago, was a football star. He was captain of the C. A. A. team, Rex Beach, the novelist, was the left tackle when Mayor Thompson played left end. McDaniels, Draper, Klunder and Slater were the backfield. Myers, Paulman, Powers, Remington and Baeder were others in the line.

Scott Perry, the pitcher taken on by the St. Louis Browns from Louisville and sent back after a two-inning trial, may not have made good in fast company, but he gave Walter Johnson one of the hardest battles he ever had. It was following the season and in an exhibition game in Oklahoma, Johnson pitched for one bush team and Perry for the other. Perry was to get $50 if he lost and $75 if he beat Johnson. The game went eleven innings without a run, but Johnson's team won out in the twelfth. Perry says he may pitch a lot of ball in days to come, but he never will work harder than he did in that game, when he wanted to win not so much to beat Walter Johnson as to get that extra $25. Johnson got $250 for the game win or lose.

Not Forbidden to Hint.
Little Katherine was told of her aunt's approaching marriage and was asked to keep it a secret. Upon being questioned by a playmate, she replied: "I promised not to tell, but I will hint just a little."

The Clubmen of America are Enthusiastic "Bull" Durham Smokers

No body of men has greater opportunities for wide experience, comparison and selection. They have the means to command and the trained taste to appreciate the best of everything in life.

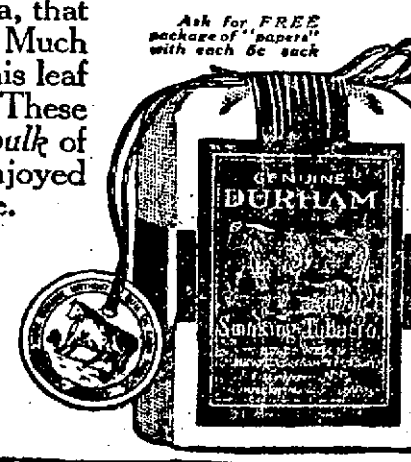

In the cigarettes they make for themselves, to their individual liking, from "Bull" Durham tobacco, these men find the delicious freshness, incomparable mildness and unique fragrance, that afford supreme enjoyment and satisfaction. At all times and occasions it is correct, fashionable, epicurean to "Roll Your Own."

GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO

Made from the finest, mellow-ripe leaf grown in the famous "bright" tobacco district of Virginia-North Carolina, that supplies the world with cigarette tobacco. Much of the delicate flavor and fragrance of this leaf escapes from the ready-made cigarette. These rare qualities can only be retained in the bulk of tobacco in the "Bull" Durham sack, and enjoyed in the fresh-rolled "Bull" Durham cigarette.

THE SECOND NOTE.

The government of the United States therefore deems it reasonable to expect that the Imperial German government will adopt the measures necessary to put these principles into practice in respect of the safeguarding of American lives and American ships and asks for assurances that this will be done.

This is the kernel of the second official note sent the German government by President Wilson relative to international affairs and the sinking of American vessels and death of American citizens by German submarines. It is not as stringent in tone, perhaps, as the initial note, but it is just as firm in its declaration of purpose.

It is less aggressive, less provocative in its language, but there is no dissent from the note. The phrases "strict accountability" or "omit any word or act necessary" are missing and it was perhaps due to this fact it was believed the note would prove conciliatory and be peaceful in its tone.

There is no abatement of the insistence expressed although it does not contain menacing characters. The president still contends the sacred right of humanity should govern and that it was violated by the sinking of the Lusitania. The German contention that this vessel was an armed cruiser is dismissed in well chosen language.

As to the Falaba he still maintains that it was not justifiable and expects Germany to give a strict accounting. However, an olive branch is perhaps held out when the United States offers to act as a mediator between Germany and England as regards this submarine warfare. This should impress the German government and the German people that the United States desires to be both just and fair to Germany in all things.

Diplomatic circles are reported to believe that this note may pave the way for a final adjustment of peace negotiations. At any rate, it gives Germany and its allies an opportunity to act in this direction if they desire.

Taking it all in all the second message is as strong in upholding the dignity of the American people as was the first. Behind it stands a united people and there is no mistaking the attitude of friendly spirit which it contains nor the unspoken wish of a peaceful solution of the difficulties.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The Wisconsin legislature of Nineteen Fifteen have a peculiar problem to confront them. By the platforms of both the democratic and the republican parties they are pledged to a reduction of state expenses and a decided reduction in state taxes. This reduction will not of course be felt this present year, the levy being made up for that year, was practically decided before the present legislature convened, but in the next year and years to come it can be reduced if the ideas of the governor are followed out. It will not be upon his head that the odium will fall, but upon the legislators, if the administration measures aimed to bring about this reform in state taxes are carried out by passage through both houses. The assembly has demonstrated willingness to do its share, but will the senate? Here is the hitch in the program and the eyes of the state are upon the senate and the men who seek re-election after ignoring the demands of the people at the last election will find short shift in many communities it is to be expected.

Some jingoist who had nothing else to do started the rumor that the German capitalists were planning to purchase a controlling interest in the big factories now rushing army supplies to the foreign powers with a view to this government's means of obtaining weapons of defense if the need came. This is as silly as the talk that was wanted to go to war with Germany, Austria or any other country. We are a peaceful people and should war come the government could seize the factories in question and manufacture all the supplies needed without asking the foreign owners, if owned abroad, aye, yes or no.

One of the organizations in Janesville in recent years that has kept alive and done valuable service for the whole community. Rock county and Janesville included, is the Commercial club. They are now going to branch out and have an office downtown. An office on the main street where every visitor will be welcome as well as every member. This organization is invaluable to the community and its membership list should include every business man and professional man in the city. The corn contest and the good roads contests make it worth while if you do not consider the various other benefits that accrue from the organization.

Next week is graduation week at the high schools throughout the county. It means that a number of young people will go out into this world to seek their own living, to learn by hard knocks, what it means to come in contact with the rush-day world. Some may continue their studies at higher institutions of learning, the great majority will close their school days now. It is a momentous event in their life and they apparently realize it. Let their last days be made as pleasant as possible so they may look upon them with pleasure.

The Milwaukee Free Press is still printed in English. With the extreme sentiments expressed towards England and everything English one would expect that the German language would be used to express the burning sentiments of the editor. The average German paper, printed in that language is more moderate in its utterances than the Free Press and has much more influence in moulding opinion. Take for instance the Herald and the Germania in Milwaukee alone.

Janesville is to have a Chautauqua this year. It is an important date to keep in your memory book. The same list of entertainers, speakers and officials are conducting similar chautauqs in ninety-two cities in this state and Michigan, including Detroit, this season, so the Bower City is assured a good program. One of the essential features is to buy a season ticket at reduced rates so as to enjoy all the good things on the program at a minimum cost.

Despite the weather golfers are just as enthusiastic as ever and the crops of new players this season will surprise some of the older members before the final games are played next fall. The local course offers unusual opportunities for enthusiasts that would be eagerly snapped up in many communities where the true value of the game is recognized.

Officials of the Swiss navy and the glorious navy of Bolivia were noticeable by their absence from former Secretary Bryan's farewell at the state department, although their respective navies had been invited to attend the grand triumphant parade through the Panama canal by the former secretary while he was handling diplomatic affairs.

Have you become a sustaining member of the Janesville Y. M. C. A.? If not, why not? If you have not been solicited walk up and sign your name. Call up some member of the board of directors and he will furnish you with a blank and join an organization that is for Janesville first, last and always.

From the Carranza point of view Villa is eliminated from all consideration in the disposal of the peace plans, but dispatches from Mexico City announce that a Villa delegate is now president of the great, glorious and peaceful republic, the result of the policy of "watchful waiting," south of the Rio Grande.

Barnes announces he is going to appeal his case against Roosevelt to a higher court. Take care Mr. Barnes. The verdict was too well defined and you gained your point by making Theodore show his hand, so why continue to wash the dirty public linen in the courts.

Even the song birds are becoming disgusted with the samples of weather that are being handed out this spring and wonder if their brothers and sisters in Europe are suffering from the same kind of rain, sunshine, cold waves and cloudy days.

Apparently no one has suggested to President Wilson that Elihu Root or William Howard Taft would be excellent men for the portfolio of state if they would take it?

EMPLOYER NOT LIABLE FOR EMPLOYEE'S DEATH IN PERSONAL QUARREL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 11.—The death of an employee during a personal altercation with a fellow-worker, is not an industrial accident compensatory under the workmen's liability act, according to the industrial commission's decision just rendered in the matter of the application of Mrs. George Arnold against the Holeproof Hosiery company of Milwaukee. The application is dismissed. Mrs. Arnold's husband was shot to death by one Grabowski, a fellow employee, during a quarrel in the Holeproof plant. In holding this was not a personal injury accidentally sustained, the commission's decision says:
"There is no question but that the ill will between the men grew out of their 'interference' in their employment and over the work they had to do, but the shooting itself was not an incident to the employment as we see it. We find that the Grabowski had a fixed purpose to shoot Arnold. At the time he shot Arnold he had finished his work and was off duty. It was not his employment or Arnold's employment that caused the shooting. The shooting may as well have occurred off the premises as on them. It is no hazard of the employment that brought about his death."
The industrial commission will hold compensation hearings at Milwaukee June 17 and 18, at Ashland June 24, and at Superior June 25 and 26.

UNABLE TO FIND TRACE OF BURTON'S RELATIVES.

Telegrams sent to Battle Creek, Michigan; New Grapewin, Wisconsin; and other cities by the police department asking for information of C. A. Burton, who was found dead in his bed at 1521 Ravine street, thus far, through the belonging search has failed to reveal any letters that would tend to identify him further or give an inkling of his past life. The body was taken to the undertaker's rooms and unless word is received from relatives today, burial will probably be made tomorrow. The list prepared by the police of the peddler's belongings contains 49 razors, half of which are new, several dollars worth of peddler's jewelry and equipment. The remains are being held at Aschcraft's undertaking parlors.

ISLE OF MAN REFORMERS SEEK TO BE ANNEXED UNDER GREAT BRITAIN.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, June 11.—Dr. Ambrose Quatorough, a member of the House of Keys, the governing parliament of the Isle of Man, gave notice at the last session of that body that at the next meeting he would move that the English Government be asked to annex the island.
He complained that the Isle of Man could not get needed reforms, and that the government had relapsed into a "one-man power." The Manx people, he affirmed, were worse governed than the Germans.

The island, owing to the cutting off of boarding house and hotel business by the war, is on the border line of starvation.

The Isle of Man, although part of the British Isles, still maintains a certain independence. It is governed by a separate legislature called the Tynwald, consisting of two houses, the Governor and Council and the House of Keys. Bills after having passed both houses must receive the royal assent.

SHAKING THAT COLD.
The other morning when I dropped in to ask my neighbor how deep to plant poppy seeds, her helper met me with the news that she was in bed. "Why isn't that too bad?" I said. "Has she been ill long?" "I'm not at all," called my neighbor from above stairs, "and I'm not going to be if I can help it. I'm just shaking my cold."

Above stairs she motioned me to sit near the window. "Don't come near me, sit down there where you won't get the germs, and I'll explain myself. Perhaps you remember the first of last winter I had a horrid cold, worse, and finally landed in bed for the next two weeks. After three people I know of and I don't know how many more I don't know of, had caught the cold."

"Well that's the last time for that sort of thing for me. My doctor says the only way to get rid of a cold is to give it to the rest and get yourself in condition to throw it off. He says to gargle your throat with some good eucalyptus and go to bed where you won't be in danger of having your resistance lowered by draughts, and where you can rest and sleep."

"I had a cold start in March and I shook it that way. To go to bed absolutely necessary to me, but I said to myself 'You may go to-day and get a cold fastened on to you and not be able to do another thing for the bazaar. You're not so indispensable as you think, but anyhow they can do without you better to-day than for the next few weeks.' So I stayed at home and stayed in bed the first day, and took naps and went to bed at seven the next few days, and I threw it off."

Now what do you think about it all, reader friends?
Was it worth while or not?
Not everyone can go to bed.
What's that I hear someone saying? "That's all very well, but it isn't possible for everyone to go to bed for a day any time at all!"
Unfortunately true. But anyone can do the next best thing, which is to give up all duties which are not absolutely necessary and go to bed with the birds.

Besides which I think it would be possible to take the whole cure for a great many people who don't choose to think so. It might be hard, but hard and impossible are not one, and the cost of not doing it is often infinitely greater than the cost of doing it.

What Came From One Cold.
I know a woman who thought she couldn't give in and go to bed for a day. Her cold developed into tonsillitis, her three children, a maid and two nephews of the family caught the infection. It certainly would have been less expensive in the end to neglect the children that first day or two and get rid of the cold.

"I had my guest room all stripped and ready to clean and a woman hired to help me, but I let her do something else she could do without my supervision, and put off the cleaning till another time," said my neighbor. Wise, wise woman. A Daniel come to judgment!

Heart and Home Problems
Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am almost nineteen and am considered good looking. There is one thing that bothers me, and that is my nose. When I put powder on it it stays only a short time. Now what would you advise for a greasy nose?
(2) My sister had a pimple near her mouth for a number of years. Is there any cure for it?
(3) I have BROWN EYES.
(4) I am eating or overeating causes a greasy skin. Don't eat pork, pastries or anything rich. Coffee is also bad for the complexion. Try a liquid substitute. I use powder. It will last longer. The simplest is composed of a ounce of pure oxide of zinc, a dram of glycerine, drops of essence of rose. To mix, the glycerine is slowly poured over the zinc, stirring all the time to keep a smooth paste. The rose water follows added in the same manner. The essence goes last. When bottled there will be a white sediment at the bottom, and the preparation must always be shaken before any is put on the face. In applying a piece of muslin or linen should be used. It must be put on with extreme care, and evenness, otherwise there will be patches of white which spoil one's looks.
(5) Any cure would be dangerous. A skilful beauty doctor might remove it with safety, but no one else could.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am in love with a young man, but he seems to be very distant at times while at other times he seems to think the world and all of me. I can't think of giving him up. I don't care about other fellows. How can I find out whether he cares for me? And how should I treat him when he acts this way? We have been friends a long, long time. This young man calls on me often and says that he thinks a lot of me.

(2) Should I ask a young man to leave when we have been friends for two years?
(3) How late of an evening should a young man stay when he comes about seven-thirty?
(4) Is it proper for a young lady and a young man to take a walk about nine o'clock in the evening?
(5) Should a girl return home from church on a Sunday night alone after nine o'clock?
(6) WARRIED.
(1) The man is interested in you as long as he wants to call. Try to fit into his moods, and when he is in different moods, meet him with indifference and don't expect him to be attentive. It is only natural that he should be more demonstrative at one time than another.
(2) The invitation becomes forced. He ought to know that he is welcome by that time.
(3) Until ten, if he stays longer he is apt to become tiresome.
(4) Yes.
(5) It is all right if she lives near the church, and has the protection of several others passing on the street.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married six months and my wife goes out every day, coming home sometimes at 12 o'clock at night. When I come home from work I find a note on the table, saying, "I won't be long, dearie; cook your own supper." And she leaves some money for me to buy things with. I told her that I wished she would stay home evenings, but all she said was: "You ought to be glad you're living, so don't fuss over trifles." I make twenty-one dollars a week and give it to her. I love my wife and wouldn't like to leave her, and so please tell me what to do to keep her home nights.
Keep the money; pay bills yourself and give her an allowance.
When she learns that you are head of the house she will gain respect for you, and may want to spend her evenings at home with you. Take her little frequently, too. It costs very little, but she would probably enjoy it. A man makes a grave mistake in not taking his wife places. She gets tired of work and home, and after a day's work likes diversion.

ARTIFICIAL CRABAPPLES.
For a pretty touch to any salad dish take soft cream cheese and put through the meat grinder, then roll it into the size of crabapples, dent the top with your finger and place a parsley stem in the top to represent the apple stem, also dent in the bottom and put in a clove to have the blossom effect.
Color the cheese ball with red fruit coloring and you have a perfect crabapple, and few will wonder at these dainty apples in and out of season. These are equally pretty to serve with pie.

BOAS OF WHITE FUR ARE SEASON'S RAGE

Pretty White Pussy Better Not Stir Far From the House Until New Rage Is Over.
(By Margaret Mason.)
Ob, where is our white pussy cat?
For days she's not been seen.
Alack! the wrapping round the throat
Some summer girl, I ween.

New York, June 11.—Pretty pussies better not stray far from home and hearth these days if she be white as snow. I doubt if even the gentle bunny ought to feel overly safe in his cozy nest, and that the dear fashionable girls are all demanding white fur boas for the heated season. Positively it's enough to discourage anyone who dares to wear the way the damsel are all wrapped up in these fur neck pieces. Why they're in them up to their very ears.

Truth in this instance is indeed stranger than fiction for what modern author would ever have the nerve to write, "It was a close stuffy afternoon in June as Belinda, wrapping a snowy fur about her, not less snowy flared ruffles in rapturous and fierce waiting arms." And yet we are in the midst of June and in the midst of fur swathed Belindas. Yea, verily, this is going a bit too far.

Even the gorgeous silk sweaters of Italian silk dyed in the most wondrous shades of green, rose, blue and yellow are not quite the last word unless they are finished with wide white fur bands around the hips and with a similar belt edging the abbreviated sailor collar.

Many smart and fluffy little summer dance and evening frocks of chiffon, net and tulle are being sported, and the low cut out neck or have as a leading for one of the multitudinous flounces of the skirt. Long white gloves, and white shoes, and a shawl hood of net and white, with a touch of the startlingly contrasting white fur banding. An all white organdie dress with many long ruffles in rapturous and fierce waiting arms.

Even bathing suits can not escape the fur craze and a cerise taffeta is foolishly decked out with an edging of white fur bands around the neck and a V-shape neck. It serves as a trimming also on the wide shade hat of cerise rubberized silk.

Another ridiculous but beautiful beach costume, for one can hardly go so far as to designate them as bathing suits, is of peacock blue taffeta trimmed in tinsel ribbon. The short full skirt is composed of four tiers of tulle, each tier edged with a gold tinsel edging the three tiers ruffles that form the sleeves and finishes the wee ruffling outlining the very much cut out back and front low neck line.

A Chinese cut of the blue with a gold tassel caps this glittering garb and peacock blue sandals have tinsel lace that twist high up around the peacock blue silk increased limb turning it into a golden cage.

Proving that "beauty unadorned adorned the most" is still as true as the first time it was quoted are the long pieces of tulle suits of silk jersey in all the brightest and most realistic worn decorously shrouded with stunning bathing maudlin of the same shaded silk lined with awning stripes, silk in two brilliant contrasting colors.

to see the big football game with Pennsy this fall. She's delighted about that. He's a pleasant chap and rich. I'm afraid she will like him.
"Why isn't he all right?" inquired Dick, pausing with a biscuit half way to his mouth to look at Nell.
"Oh, yes, but— You'll laugh at me, but I have my heart set on her carrying the doctor," said Nell in low tones, turning her head on one side to observe the effect of her words.

"You little match-maker," laughed Dick. "I'm afraid you're doomed to disappointment. You're a few girls who would care to marry a divorced man, especially if the former wife is bent on mischief."
"You're certainly fine for you to have your best friend here, but she would never be contented in a tiny town like this. I imagine you're hesitating about marrying me if you had known I was going to drag you away to the wilderness."
"Dick!" exclaimed Nell in a shocked tone. "How can you talk so? But I see the chances are all in favor of her liking Mr. Joplin," she continued after a pause, "and he is crazy about her, Mrs. Scott says."

"her," mused Dick, helping himself to more money.
"I don't think so. She asks about him in the letter."
"She might do that for effect," said Nell. "She is the frankest person I ever knew. She is very different from most girls in that respect," said Nell.
"Even frank girls will try to throw dust in such matters," said Dick, chuckling.
"Do you remember how you used to try to make people think there was nothing between us?"
"I never was frank like Olive," said Nell, reddening.
"As far as Olive's matrimonial prospects are concerned, we can only wait developments. Dick rose from the table and lit a cigar."

ors. Certainly these simple next to Nature bathing suits have it all over the furs, for and feathers of the elaborate beach costumes unfortunately, however, not only do they cost a pretty figure, but they need a pretty figure as well. As for the head coverings that offer their varied charms to the fair bather this season, they are enough to turn the mermaids sea green with envy. There are the little Chin Chin caps with their bright bobbing tassels, the gay little shady clove hats with their quaint cone shaped tops, smart rubber band and real flowers and fruits, military visored caps and striking black and white checked and striped silk handkerchiefs with sassy rabbit ear knots in front.

There are even dainty reticules and hand bags to dangle from a bather's wrist that hold within their ornate and waterproof silken folds the indispensable powder puff and rouge stick, a mirror and a mouchoir. So you see there is really more to a bathing costume than you might think at a first and feeling glance.

Fittings for School Girls
We appreciate how important the school girl's corset is. There comes a day when she must graduate from the waist, and when this time comes she needs the utmost consideration in the selection of her corset.
We have made a study of the proper corset for the young girl and will give fittings regularly on afternoons to any girl, no matter what price she pays for her corset.
We take particular pleasure in recommending certain models of WARNER'S RUST-PROOF CORSETS that have been designed for young girls. We have found them to be all that you could wish for supporting the undeveloped figure comfortably and permitting it to develop in graceful lines of maturity.

Style 1D33 at $2.00 is one of the newest models by the WARNER DESIGNERS; with medium low bust and medium length skirt. It is lightly boned with thin, flexible, double Rust-Proof boning. We have other styles from $1.00 up.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS ON CARE OF LAWNS

Old Turf May be Repaired by Re-seeding, Fertilizing and Watering.

The improvement of an old lawn is a very much more difficult problem than establishing a new one. In many cases it is impracticable to attempt the improvement of an old lawn that is in bad condition say the specialists of the United States department of agriculture. However, if a reasonably good turf obtains, it is possible to better it materially by re-seeding, fertilizing and watering. In the majority of cases, improvement is desired in the spring, since at this season many bare spots are in evidence as the result of the preceding winter. If the areas to be improved are small, they can be hand-worked and reseeded with little difficulty. If they are large, it is usually advisable to spade them up, work thoroughly, and seed, as in the case of starting a new lawn. In any event, reseeded should be done early in the spring with a liberal quantity of the mixture before described.

When the stand of grass is thin over the entire lawn or a greater portion of it, a special seeder equipped with small disks has been found very satisfactory for putting the seed into the soil. The seeder provides favorable conditions for germination and subsequent growth. In the early spring, however, the soil is usually dry, and as a result of the freezing and thawing and is not sufficiently moist condition to permit the seed to be covered with little difficulty. After seeding, if the ground has become quite dry, watering is usually beneficial. Care should be taken when moving or watering the newly seeded areas to avoid disturbing the young grass. This caution always applies in a measure to all sowing, although there is not so much danger of damage in the case of the latter.

The management of the lawn after it is once established is an extremely important matter, and there are a few general practices that should be followed carefully. Beginning in the early spring, the first thing to do is to remove with a top dressing, a dressing that has been applied the fall before. After removing this it is usually advisable to apply some fertilizer, even though the soil already contains a considerable amount of fertilizer. One of the very best fertilizers for the lawn in the spring is nitrate of soda, but on account of its quick action and its caustic effect extreme caution should be used in its application. Five pounds of nitrate of soda are sufficient for 1,000 square feet of lawn, and if applied in solution with the watering pot, and the grass is thoroughly watered with a hose, there is little danger of scalding. Bone meal is probably the best commercial fertilizer to use on a lawn, considering the danger from the misuse of nitrate of soda. Bone meal can be used without taking any special caution in its application, as it is in no way injurious to the grass. Eight pounds to 1,000 square feet is a liberal application. Any commercial fertilizer that is used should be applied early in the spring when the grass begins to grow. In fact, bone meal can be used to advantage every month during the growing season, except perhaps July and August. Fertilizing through the season is especially beneficial in the case of lawns that are stimulated at times when it would otherwise be more or less inactive. Pulverized limestone as a top dressing is very helpful, and an application of this substance can be made either in the fall, winter or spring. Lime corrects the acidity of the surface soil and is useful in checking the growth of moss and various other plants that are detrimental to the grass.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, June 11.—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Holton entertained about twenty guests at a very pleasant party for Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ulrich last evening. An eight o'clock supper was served, after which the evening was very pleasantly spent playing bridge.

DAIRY

INVESTMENT IN POOR COWS

Milk Producer Must Stop Guessing and Be Certain of Results—Much Money Is Wasted.

Chief obstacles in successful dairying are lack of well balanced, intensive methods and not applying business principles. The milk producer must stop guessing and know for sure what the results will be and adopt the ways of most profit.

Large sums of money are invested in many acres of land, extensive and expensive buildings, costly horses, tools and machinery, high-priced feed and labor, and all of this outlay turned to raising crops that do not yield anything like the amount of digestible nutrients per acre that should and could be obtained, and to feeding and poorly caring for a herd of poor cows utterly unable to return a profit.

The same expenditure of money and labor bestowed in an intelligent manner upon the same farm and an efficient dairy herd would return a handsome profit.

BEST SIZE OF SILO TO BUILD

Not Advisable to Construct Rectangular With Diameter Over Twenty Feet—Right Height.

In building a silo one should plan well the width of the silo. If the silo is too wide for the number of stock to be fed from it daily, there will not be a sufficient amount of silage taken from the silo per day, especially in warm weather, to keep the silage from spoiling.

A depth of 2 to 2 1/2 inches of silage should be taken from the silo per day during the winter months, and a depth of three inches per day during the warm summer months.

If the stock on a farm is equivalent to from ten to fifteen cows, the silo should have a diameter of about ten feet; if equivalent to fifteen to twenty-five cows, a diameter of about twelve feet; if equivalent to twenty-five to thirty-five cows, a diameter of about fifteen feet; if equivalent to thirty-five to forty-five cows, a diameter of sixteen feet; if equivalent to forty-five to sixty-five cows, a diameter of eighteen feet; if equivalent to sixty-five to seventy-five cows, a diameter of eighteen feet. For a herd of seventy-five cows or over the diameter can be from eighteen to twenty feet.

It is not advisable to build a silo with the diameter over twenty feet. It is a general rule not to make the height of the silo less than twice or more than three times the diameter.

PLAN FOR DEHORNING CATTLE

Illustration Shows How the Head of Animal Is Held While Operation Is Being Performed.

In reply to an inquiry as to the best method for dehorning a cow a subscriber of Hoard's Dairyman submits the following plan:

"I enclose you a tie for holding cow's head at station while dehorning. I think it the best tie I know. I send you a small model to show how to use it. When cow's head is fast in station, the rope is dropped over cow's neck, the loop is caught on the under side and the rope doubled is put through loop and placed around the nose up far enough to not shut off her breathing, and then pull the rope back to a post at side of station, and one turn around post. A man can hold the end, and by placing his weight on rope hold the cow's head quite solid while her horns are removed. The rope is quickly removed by taking off nose and pulling same."

Galicia's Great Battlefield Along River San, Described

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Galicia's great battlefield along the course of the River San is described in today's war primer of the National Geographic Society.

The broken banks of the River San have taken their place among the world's greatest battlefields of all times through the determined Russian investment and capture of Przemyśl and more especially through the recent continuous days of battle between the Austro-German armies, headed toward Lemberg, and the Russian forces, bound for the open plains of the Dual Monarchy beyond the Carpathians.

On the banks of the San, hundreds of thousands of men have been fighting bitterly back and forth, and the little stream, of such strategic importance as to have escaped notice of all the leading works of English reference, henceforward will live in history's annals as long as the memory of the names of the fields of Waterloo and Gettysburg.

The San, a right bank tributary of the Vistula River, is about 300 miles long. It rises in the East Beskides, flowing first through a very narrow valley, full of wildest mountain scenery. The river becomes navigable at Przemyśl. From the point of this famous Austrian stronghold, shallow draft boats and poled scows carry forest and agricultural produce to the Vistula. Behind Przemyśl, the river is a mountain stream, and one of the most attractive in northern Europe.

About twenty miles north of Przemyśl, the San, at Jaroslaw, reaches the open plain. From this point, the river turns more northwest, joining the Vistula on the borders of Galicia and Russian Poland. Between Jaroslaw, south to Przemyśl, where the heaviest fighting of the past weeks has been taking place, the country is rough, often sharply broken at the river, and offering many opportunities for military defense. Beyond Przemyśl, toward the river's source, the San zigzags from a point about thirty miles to the west, whence it comes from the south and southeast, during the spring freshets and again, during rainy autumn seasons, the lower valley of the San often suffers from severe floods. The San is joined by a number of small mountain tributaries, which add to the intricate markings of the great battlefield.

From the mountain evergreen, through the forests of oak, to the southern graves of lemons and olives, the vegetation of Galicia is as rich and varied as are the numbers of moods in which the superb lake gives itself.

Its northernmost extremity is high in Tyrol, while its southern shore is a level of sixteen miles west of Verona and seventy-seven miles east of Milan. The chief tributary of the lake is the Sarca from the glaciers of the Alps. Its only outlet is Mincio, a tributary of the Po.

Many fashionable vacation resorts border Garda, one of the chief of which is Riva, near the northern shore, with its good hotels and many fine attentions to the comfort and whims of the tourist. This little place boasts, moreover, interesting ruins of Roman baths, its villa of Catullus, and its wonderful views, is the most beautiful village of Garda, upon its eastern shore. Nowhere are there scenes on this queen of southern lakes that are fitting for the setting of a war-drama. Garda is a lyric and a pastoral.

WOODEN WAR MONUMENTS FOR CHARITY CONTRIBUTIONS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Amsterdam, June 11.—Potsdam, Hanover, and other German towns have joined Berlin in erecting wooden war monuments, the surface of which they are covering with nails.

hammered in by contributors to war charities.

The Potsdam monument is in the shape of a giant cross. Heibron has an equestrian monument of the Knight of the Iron Hand, while other cities have erected colossal figures of eagles, panthers, and characters from German folk lore or mythology.

In the case of the Potsdam monument, subscribers of ten cents to the war charity fund may drive one iron nail, subscribers of fifty cents one silver-headed nail and subscribers of $2.50 a gold-headed nail.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

Question.—I have a rooster affected with scaly leg. What shall I do for him?

Answer.—The simplest treatment for scaly leg is said to be to thoroughly coat the legs with gas tar. When the tar wears off the scales go with it, leaving the legs clean. This tar can undoubtedly be secured at the gas works.

Another remedy said to be good is a mixture of some grease such as lard or vaseline and kerosene, thoroughly rubbed in. It is likely that the gas tar is more effective.

Question.—I have a patch of Canadian thistles, about 30 feet square. How can I get rid of it?

Answer.—There are many methods for getting rid of Canada thistles, some of which are only applicable to small areas. Among them are the following:

Salting.—Cut off the thistle while in bloom just beneath the surface of the earth and apply a large handful of salt, or better yet, a half pint of stiff salt brine where the thistle is cut off. This method is effective in a pasture for the stock in their efforts to get at the salt, will help to destroy the thistles.

Gasoline.—Gasoline may be applied in the same way as the salt; but for a large patch may be too expensive.

Covering with Paper.—Perhaps the cheapest and most effective method for a patch the size of the one described is to cover with tar or heavy building paper. The strips of paper must overlap enough to prevent the plants coming up between and must extend far enough beyond the edges so that no plants can reach sunlight and air. The paper must be weighted down to prevent it from blowing up. Stones or earth may be used for this purpose. In a dry season sixty days will usually be sufficient to destroy the weeds, but if in ground to be plowed this fall it would be well to leave the paper on until time to plow. Of course this treatment will not apply to uneven ground.

Cultivation.—The ground may be heavily manured and then spaded. This should be followed by frequent hoeing and when the seed bed has been thoroughly prepared the land may be sown to rye, buckwheat or alfalfa, about July 1st. These plants starting rapidly will smother out the thistles, if they can be kept growing. If this is not effective plow in this fall, and before the frost is fairly out in the spring. Then cultivate thoroughly until May 10, and sow hemp broadcast at the rate of one bushel per acre. The ground should be well fertilized so that the hemp may grow rapidly.

FRENCH WOMEN LAWYERS DOING GREAT BUSINESS SINCE WAR STARTED

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Paris, June 11.—The women lawyers, of whom there are about thirty registered before the Paris bar, have come into their own since the war. The needs of the army have thinned the ranks of their male rivals, and the women lawyers, who formerly were called in only in cases involving women clients, have begun to get a share of the ordinary routine business of the courts.

A number of the women "advocates" have made a specialty of pleading before courts-martial for soldiers whose leave of absence was overstayed or who have been brought up for some other minor infraction, and the women have proved very successful pleaders in this class of business.

Second Quarter, Lesson XI. Psalm
23, June 13, 1915.
THE BLESSEDNESS OF FORGIVENESS.

(The Story.)
In spite of the numerous, the fifty-first psalm is the premise of which the thirty-second is the conclusion. Confession, forgiveness—that is the logical order. The penitential psalm must precede the very words of forgiveness. The two hymns cannot be divorced, but must be taken in their true order of sequence. Their power and imperishability is that they are transcripts from the human heart. They are all men's psalms because they faithfully portray all men's experiences. For this reason they must be perpetually and universally helpful. The two psalms picture sin as the realist thing in the world. They admit of no question as to its inevitability. They disdain all efforts of gloss, or palliate. The terms of human sin could not make more emphatic the vorticity and turpitude of sin, its penalty and agony. The autobiographical character of these psalms is their strength. As one reads the psalm that David is teaching in song what he himself had learned in suffering. The importance of confession as a relief for sin is nowhere in literature more effectively described. David tried it. He kept silent. He went on with royal functions. But his unconfessed sin was like a secret acid shut up within his bones. It corroded and dissolved his very body up. He could not subdue the groans which his agony wrung from him. In place of nature's salubrious there was the aridity of torment—that is the teaching of David's experience. No relief in confession—that is the lesson of his psalm. . . . The antithesis attempted between the misery of Frank confession is one of the most striking things ever done with a pen. David might have tried to palliate his sin. Some modern commentators have cleverly attempted to do so for him. But he pleaded no extenuating causes, he made no mention of previous services. He did not excuse himself from public confession by reasons of state. He went down upon his knees crying: "God, be merciful to me, a sinner." He particularized "my transgression," "my iniquity," "my sin," "this two Psalms," given for public use in the worship of the temple, David made known at once his sin and the fact of its forgiveness. . . . What God does is well done. When he forgives, he forgives well. Contemplating the thoroughness of divine emancipation of the sinner from his sin leads David to break out rapturously. "O, the blessednesses of him whose transgression is forgiven!" "God covers sin when it is confessed." He ceases to impute iniquity. He extracts guilt. . . . David realizes that his case is exemplary. He proceeds to make it useful to his fellows. He exhorts those who are bent upon godliness to offer, as he himself has, the prayer of penitence. Great are the gains. The forgiven man is like the greatest flood can ledge which the greatest flood can never reach. He is hidden and security of the confessor could not be described in terms more significant. This "skillfully constructed song" has now reached such a height that even the Divine voice can join it. David's experience is God's text. The Deity is represented as entreating the forgiven man to be tractable so that the errors of the past may not be repeated. The eye of God on man from above enables him to guide and counsel him. The highest qualities of the human soul are appealed to. Man is no brute, to be pulled about with a bit. Reason and moral influence are to be his guides. . . . The circuit of thought is complete when, following the narrative of Divine utterance, David again emphasizes the sorrows of unconfessed and covered wickedness in contrast to the gladness and joy of those who have trusted the Lord for mercy and have attained an assured position of uprightness of heart.

1. The keenest delight of which we are capable comes to us from knowing God. When the devout astronomer Kepler made his great discovery, he exclaimed, "O God, I think thy thoughts after thee." There is no greater joy than this, unless it be that of seeing God's character reproduced in our lives. If this be true, then education is not optional with us, but imperative. We are bound to cultivate every talent which we possess, because each is an avenue through which God can reveal himself to us. We are bound to open every window of our soul "towards Jerusalem," and let in the light of God's glorious truth.

11. The superior advantages which students enjoy make it doubly important that they should become acquainted early with the Lord Jesus. Education enlarges one's capacity to see and foresee, to do and to undo. It multiplies his influence, and thus increases his responsibility, since the welfare of others depends upon his action and attitude. No educated person can possibly live a Christless life without leading others to do the same. This consideration should have great weight. A professor in a large military school recently told the writer that it was the thought of his influence with the boys which led him to decide for God and put himself on record as a Christian.

111. Again, the peculiar temptations which confront a student make an acquaintance with Jesus indispensable. Among these may be mentioned: (a) The freedom from home restraint. The strong, steady hand of the father and the indescribable influence of the mother is lacking. There is no younger brother or sister to be considered, not even the restraining influence of someone else's sister. The consequence is that one grows selfish and comes to think that all the world was made for him.

(b) The petty vices which prevail so commonly among students. By the side of the writer in college sat the valedictorian of the class. He was a well-disposed man, but he had no religious principles. When others drank he was not strong enough to refuse. After graduation he studied law and became one of the most brilliant and promising lawyers in the state. Temptations now grew stronger and more frequent, and having no acquaintance with him "who is able to save to the uttermost," and "able to keep you from falling," he soon lost his standing and business, and died a common drunkard.

(c) Not the least of the dangers which confront a student is the temptation to doubt. He lives in an atmosphere of inquiry and criticism. Old theories are being laid aside and new facts are constantly being discovered. Possibly he sees some of his instructors, for whose ability he has the highest respect, utterly indifferent to the claims of the Gospel. Literature is full of covert sneers at religion. He is just at the age when his critical faculties are being developed, and he begins to question everything which he once believed. Add to this the natural willingness of the heart to have it so, and you have a combination of circumstances calculated to shake the strongest faith. Some, indeed, think it a sign of superior intellect to doubt, but this is a mistake. It is sometimes a sign of spiritual blindness, and often of moral obliquity. A large part of the skepticism of students is of the heart rather than of the head.

CHRIST'S CALL TO THE YOUNG MEN OF TODAY.

(Led by Three Young Men).
The devil may find work for idle hands, but Christ does not. His call is not to the indolent, but to those already busy. He calls the four young fishermen of Galilee while they were in the very act of casting or mending their nets. Suppose they had answered: "Not now! This is my busy day!" They would not find their names in the New Testament or in the foundations of the New Jerusalem. The genesis of Christianity would have to be rewritten. A great need of the world today is that young men who already have vision have their horizon widened until it includes the Kingdom whose substance is righteousness and whose sphere is peace and joy. Another need is that the Kingdom of deeds begin to work to bring the Kingdom nearer. Saint Mark's lacquered comment is full of meaning. "Straighten your net, for the world is full of all young men who would win the world to truth in this generation."

Devoe Velour Finish
An Oil Paint which is intended for wall decoration where a dull, flat finish is wanted.

It gives a soft velvet surface very durable.

It stands cleaning just as any paint does; it is a hard finish, and more sanitary than calcimine or wall paper.

Devoe Velour Finish should be put on by a painter, but you can do it.

You'll like it on your walls.

TELLS CORN GROWERS TO KEEP HOPES HIGH

Allen West Urges Boys Not to Get Discouraged—More Should Qualify.

Allen B. West.
It is encouraging to know that so many boys have entered the corn contest this year. But it is one thing to enter and another to qualify. Some of the boys have fallen out by the way of not being properly starting. We hope this year to have a larger proportion stay in to the end.

To be sure there are a great many things that may happen to discourage one but never mind boys, if they do. Refuse to be discouraged and if it is surprising what nature will do for you after seeming to turn her back on you.

One of the boys in the contest last year lost most of his first planting because the hogs got in and rooted it up. He planted again and the chick-worms ate at it, but he bravely showed and enjoyed the trip to Madison as well as any of the boys, possibly better on account of his discouragements. Best of all he had the consciousness of having won, not in the number of bushels per acre, but in doing what he set out to do. He had raised an acre of corn according to conditions and turned in his record. Those who started and allowed conditions to turn them aside from their purpose suffered defeat, just there.

The boys who stop work because they fancy they will not make a good showing are beaten at the outset by their own decisions.
One of the first discouragements to the young corn grower is likely to occur now. May is a cold wet month, not favorable to speedy germination, and as the corn sends its green shoots above the ground so the rows may be traced in the field it is quite likely the seed failed to germinate, though if sown seed which had been properly dried and care was used and the best taken for seed, the chances for failure in germination were much lessened. It is just such a spring as this one that shows the value of seed almost any season, but not in a year like this one of 1915.

And if the seed was of strong germination the cold wet weather has delayed it to such an extent that the crows and black birds and gophers have had more time to get in their work. These are enemies rather difficult to combat. Some people shoot at the crows and blackbirds, but rarely this is a doubtful practice. Those who have studied these birds conclude that the harm done by them is not as great as is supposed. The good they do, they compensate for by the harm they do.

Agriculture of the United States has examined the stomachs of forty different kinds of birds, including 25,000 individuals and have based their conclusions on what they found there. They say that the crows' depredations are compensated for by insects such as grasshoppers, grasshoppers and may beetles and animals such as mice.

The red wing blackbird destroys caterpillars, grasshoppers and weevils and the weevils that appear in the corn when in ear.
The crow blackbirds follow the plow and feed on grubs. It also destroys the rose bug, cucumber beetle, grasshopper, cricket and locust.

So unless these birds are very numerous it is not well to shoot them. The gopher is a different proposition. There are many ways familiar to boys of eradicating this pest from shooting and poisoning to "drowning out" and in cases where they are destructive to the sprouting corn, a determined and persistent raid should be made upon them.

Whenever missing hills occur they should be replanted at once. The boys raising the acre should have growing corn in every hill. A perfect stand of corn means using all the land advantage. Vacant hills mean a waste of resources.
One of the most important lessons to be learned in farming is care in what seems to be little things.
It has been estimated that a loss of 30 bushels per acre will occur from the loss of only 1 ear on one stalk of each hill on one acre. Thirty bushels of corn at 75¢ per bushel is a loss that amounts to $22.50, which will pay for a considerable extra work in caring for the acre.

So boys, be sure every hill of the acre is doing its best for the crop. Watch these columns for advice with reference to cultivating. If crows bother write to Washington, D. C. Department of Agriculture for Crow Bulletin.

NUMBER OF ORPHAN CHILDREN INCREASED IN CITY OF BERLIN
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, June 11.—The number of orphan children for whom the city of Berlin has to care has grown, since April 1, 1914, from 9,487 to 10,006 on April 1, 1915. The increase of 519 is not entirely due to an increased death rate of parents, however, for 228 of the children have been added to the city's list from institutions that formerly looked out for the waifs themselves.

Cured of Gall Stone Farmer Cured of Double Rupture in Seven Treatments

Black Creek, Wis. Beaver Dam, Wis.

DR. GODDARD,
Dear Doctor:—It is with pleasure that I write to let you know that after taking your treatment I am completely cured. When I first started to doctor with you I weighed 127 lbs., now I weigh 149 lbs. I had been sick for two years and doctor after doctor, but they did not help me. They wanted to operate on me. One day I met one of your patients whom you had cured and she told me to go to you and I am very thankful that I did. I hope this will help others to believe in you and I wish you success.

Yours very truly,
MARTHA SCHENKE,

SADLER CAN SAVE YOU MONEY ON YOUR HARNESS

You naturally want to save money on the harness you buy the same as you would on any other article you spend money for. Realizing this some years ago I started this business with the idea of making my own line of harness and selling direct to the farmer thus saving him the middleman's profit. Hundreds of farmers have learned that this is so and come here to buy all their harness. My business has grown and will continue to grow because it is founded on the right kind of a basis.
